ARTISTIC ARRANGEMENTS, MINIATURES.

Few flowers are so suitable for arrangements of 5 to 8 in. over all as SENECIO ELEGANS, BROWALLIA NANA, ASPERULA AZUREA, AMBROSIA MEXICANA and ALONSOA.

These annuals have blossoms of a size which lend themselves perfectly to miniature arrangements both as to size of flower and of foliage. All are delicate and have the airy grace so fascinating in these arrangements.

SENECIO in the lavender shades is a perfect foil to white china, in the white shade combines elegantly with any color of vase, in the red purple shade is exquisite in either brown pottery, copper or silver. Combined with AMBROSIA in a grey green glass container it drew attention from larger arrangements at a large show last summer and took the sweepstakes about 300 competing.

The azure of ASPERULA with its foliage is excellent in vases of white, dainty green or silver. Airy grace is here displayed. Combined with AMBROSIA or ALONSOA for foliage it works well in silver or copper. In crystal the foliage under water adds an interesting note.

BROWALLIA'S miniature trumpets make interesting arrangements in any container harmonious with blue.

AMBROSIA by itself can be made into breath taking arrangements in copper, pewter, or brown or dull green pottery.

Miniature garden on a tray 18" X 24" drew all visitors at our Flower Show last summer. It showed a complete house and grounds. Flowers in beds, shrubbery, trees and accessories were in exact proportion. All the parts of a well landscaped grounds were shown. The floral material used were small flowered plants which simulate larger material. A detailed account of how this minia- was made, with directions /ture for the construction of accessories and a list of the plant material used, together with suggestions for variations will be sent you for 25 cents.

STANDARD ARRANGEMENTS.

WHITE CLEOME in a white vase rising from a base of FUNKIA leaves makes a beautiful arrangement, one sure to catch a judge's eye and hold his attention. A single stalk of the same flower rising fountainwise from a base ASPERULA with ALONSOA foliage for accent and to tie the design together is another happy combination if arranged in a low bowl of copper or dull green glass.

DWART MORNING GLORY combined with TAGATES SIGNATA in a dull copper bowl is also breathtaking. DWART MORNING GLORY remains open all day and evening if cut in the early morning. Either the dark blue or purple is good in this combination, the purple being the prettier.

DELPHINIUM light blue combined with pink plumes of THALICTRUM AQUILEGAFOLIUM in a pale green basket make a striking arrangement to decorate a fireplace or entrance hall. Combined with navy blue DELPHINIUM in a brown or cream basket or in a large brown pottery olla it will grace a corner or niche or serve as a central motif at a flower show. Other arrangements will suggest themselves for SENECIO and for AMBROSIA which may be cut tall or short.

SCENTED DELPHINIUM.

We have achieved a real scented Delphinium. The odour has been likened to wild rose or to honey. Light blue overlaid with pearly lavender. Florets large, Wexham type. Stalks long strong and covered with flowers. Delicate aroma distinctly noticeable at a distance. A quadruple hybrid of Wexham Light Blue, D. Odoratum, D. Macrocentron and D. Wellbyi. $\frac{1}{4}$ pkt 50¢. Full pkt. \$2.00

DAHLIA MAIDEN BLUSH.

A beautiful clear pink cactus dahlia with long incurving petals. Large flowers on sturdy stems. Cuts and lasts well. Takes 1st prize when exhibited. Tubers only, $1.00 each. Supply limited.

PETUNIA GIANT RUFFLED.

Our own Maine grown seed. Hand pollinated. This strain is specially grown for sowing directly in the bed where it is to grow. We have added this year several new color combinations. May be sown under glass but this is not necessary as the seed germinates strongly and plants mature rapidly. Large pkt 50¢ & pkt 25¢

HESPERIS NIVEA.

A pure white Hesperis which cuts well and blooms all summer. Delicate violet odor. Stems long. Florets the size of Pinlox. Very desirable and long lasting perennial. Pkt 15¢

CAMPALULA PUNCTATA.

A highly desirable noble perennial from the high mountain meadows of Kishu. Flowers tubular purple, red, mauve. $2\frac{1}{2}$ " long in 3' spikes. Pkt 25¢.

ANNUALS.

Many new and unusual annuals especially adapted to artistic arrangements, together with older annuals of known usefulness for this purpose. We try out many new flowers each year and offer seed of those particularly adapted to artistic arrangements.

PERENNIAL SEED.

EDENHALL HYBRID LUPINE.

A vogue for this lovely subject is increasing. We secured the original seed from the garden of EDENHALL, noted estate in the north of England. We have improved it by selection and crossing until we have what is probably the best American grown English Lupine seed. Germination is excellent, superior to Russell. Tall spikes in the daintiest pastel shades and bicolors. Spikes 3 to 4 feet tall, Cuts, keeps and arranges well. A blue ribbon winning strain. Bicolors do not come true from seed. Selfs are about 80% true to tint. White, Cream, Pink, Orchid, Lavender, Red, Blue Purple. By color 25 pkt. Mixed blend of selfs and bicolors. 15¢ per pkt.

ANTHEOPAPPUS. A beautiful new perennial blooming in late June. Leaves grey, fernlike. Flowers huge pink daisies. Arranges excellently. Buds look like seed heads so do not remove by mistake 15¢.

AQUILEGIA. Long spur Columbine. A fine collection of art shades and bicolors. Extra long spurs. Mostly doubles, Crossed with Canadian & Rocky Mt. for sturdiness. Every color in this blend. Mixed large pkt 25¢. Pride of Harpswell. Fully double spurless strain. Rosette flowers. Mixed 15¢.

APRERIA. Thrift. Clustered flowers on long wiry stems. White to red. Cuts beautifully. Mixed 15¢.

ASPHODELUS LUTENS. Stately 4' spikes of golden stars. 25¢.

PREPARATION OF SOIL FOR STARTING SEEDS IN THE HOUSE.

Sift ordinary garden soil using a coarse flour sieve. Add an equal bulk of granulated peat moss. Mix thoroughly and either drench with several quarts of boiling water per 9" pot full or wet thoroughly and bake in a hot oven for half hour. Allow to stand until nearly dry. Soil is now sterile for planting.

Sterilize the pots, bulb pans or flats by immersing them in cold water to which has been added ~~1~~ a teaspoonful of ~~SERABAN~~ to each 8 gallons. Allow to dry before using. Bulb pans make the best small containers for seeds, as they can be watered from the bottom by standing in water.

Fill with prepared soil, water thoroughly and allow to stand until nearly dry. Sow seeds thin spacing as evenly as possible. Cover lightly with dry peat moss or prepared soil and press down. Fine seeds need only to be pressed into the soil. Cover with glass

Seed will germinate more quickly if container is set in a saucer of water and placed on the top of the warming oven of the kitchen range away from the smoke pipe. This supplies bottom heat. As soon as the plants appear place in sunny window. Keep seedlings damp but not wet to prevent damping off.

There is no advantage in sowing most annuals in the house. They do better if sown in the open ground as soon as it becomes warm.

MARIGOLDS. SPECIALTY

This lovely annual is offered in Maine grown seed.

We American gardeners have hardly scratched the surface of horticultural material for our gardens; this although we have such a wealth of material offered in our seedmen's catalogues. I have before me the catalogues of European, Asiatic, African and Australasian nurserymen and I find listed in these over seven thousand different species of annuals biennials and perennials, the varieties of which again runs to about twelve thousand. Out of this wealth of material we ought to secure much which is new to our gardens.

It is the object of ROSEHOLME GARDENS to try out such of this wealth of horticultural subjects as would appear to be of value to our gardens. Every order that we receive, no matter how small, enables us to try something new. We take such subjects as appear to be suitable for growth in the colder portion of America, plant them in our trial beds and if they prove useful or ornamental here and will produce seed for us, we introduce them to our American gardeners.

While much of this material does not prove adaptable to our climatic or soil needs many beautiful annuals and perennials, unknown to our gardens are discovered.

ROSEHOLME GARDENS INVITES VISITORS. We grow over 200 seedlings gladiolus on trial. Glad fans welcome. Some 20 new dahlias are in test. August is a good month to visit especially after the 15th. Located at WEST HARPSWELL LAINE, Route 123 from Bowdoin College Campus, Brunswick.

When plants are 2 inches high set in open ground. Water well the first summer After that plants will take care of themselves. Long lived perennial 15¢.

The large rosy heads of CENTAUREA AMERICANA makes a beautiful subject for use with a frosted green or black vase. The flower stems may be cut a yard long and the flower being 6" across it is best in a large container. In a bold arrangement no tying in material is necessary. It might be tried in a dark blue vase with happy results. In a basket it combines well with ASTERS, CALENDULA CHRYSANTHA, LARKSPUR, SCABIOSA or the loose petalled MAHIGOLDS.

Our DWART HYBRID DAHLIA, because of its muted colors, makes breathtaking arrangements in low brown crockery containers, copper bowls or brown or copper vases. A particularly effective combination is one made in a copper container in which the tones of the bowl were reproduced in the blooms. The orchid and lavender shades and the creams also work out well in silver, china or glass. A particularly effective arrangement can be made by combining this flower with ZINNIA SCABIOSA FLOWERED. The tints of the two compliment each other and the Autumn Leaf tints of the Zinnia serve to tie the more brilliant Dahlia bloom to the container. LUPINES are considered a nonmixer among the flowers. We have however made some dashing arrangements by combining our EDENHALL HYBRID LUPINES WITH LONG SPURRED COLUMBINE cut with long stems and some SCABIOSA KNAUTIIENSIS, both flowers and foliage to tie the design to the container. In making this arrangement be careful to use lupine and Columbine in tints which do not clash. Use plenty of Columbine foliage.

STARTING SEEDS.

GIANT RUFFLED PETUNIAS are as easy to grow as the common varieties. If wanted for early bloom seeds may be started in a sunny window in late March. Plants so started will come into bloom at Memorial Day. Prepare earth as directed in this catalogue. Sow seeds thinly. Seeds may be lightly mixed with fine sand to make sowing easier. If a pinch of ROOTONE or SEMESAN is put in the packet and the seed coated with this it is still easier so that seeds are sown thinly. Lightly cover with fine soil. Water carefully and allow plants to remain in flat until they are 2 inches high.

GIANT RUFFLED PETUNIAS may be sown in the open ground early in May. Prepare the seed bed carefully. Make it fine and mellow. Be sure that no lumps are in it. Broadcast the seed or sow in rows 1 foot apart. Pat the seed into the ground, a child's toy rake is good for this. Be sure that the ground is not sticky. Do not attempt to cover the seed. Water with a fine spray but not so that water will stand or run off the bed which should be raised. Do not attempt to transplant petunias until plants are 2 inches high. Sown thus petunias will bloom about July 1st. This method applies to our Maine bed grown seed only and is not recommended for southern or house grown seed. All fine seed may be sown by this method either in the house or in the open ground. It is not advisable to sow most seed in the open ground before May 20th in New England, farther south earlier.

Many florists transplant seedlings of the sturdier class such as ASTERS and ZINNIAS as soon as they appear, not waiting for the first true leaves to develop. This for the larger seedlings, may be good practice provided they are kept in the humid atmosphere of a greenhouse or hot bed until two sets of leaves have developed after which the process of hardening off is started.

Be sure that seedlings especially transplants have plenty of air but are not in a draft. Shield transplants from direct sun until new growth starts.

For those who must start seed in the house under usual conditions of temperature and moisture content of air it is better to let the seedlings develop at least three sets of leaves before transplanting.

Be cautious of watering both as seedlings and as transplants.

Much of the loss of seedlings is due to overwatering. However do not let the soil ever become bone dry. Give the seedlings an abundance of fresh air but keep out of direct drafts. Drafts injure only as they cause the soil and the little plants to lose moisture by the leaves faster than the roots can renew it.

If transplanting is done to another container while in the house shield as recommended. If transplanting is done directly to the open ground shield the plants with a burlap curtain on posts at least six inches higher than the highest transplant.

Keep this burlap shield over the plants until new growth starts.

With most perennials this can remain to advantage all summer.

Another excellent shield is a large flower pot placed bottom up over the plant. Tin cans may also be used provided about one half of the bottom is removed. As cans draw heat the hole should be this large to insure sufficient circulation of air.

The use of Vitamin B is recommended when transplanting both in the house and the open grounds.

The substance TRANSPLANTONE is also recommended for transplanting in the house. Both should be used as directed but the strength of the vitamin solution should be doubled when used in the open ground.

Transplanting material thinned out of rows grown in the open garden requires slightly more care. This material has lost a large portion of its root growth which is necessarily torn off as it is uprooted from the parent row.

If this material is of sufficient value to warrant the cost, we dust the root of each seedling with ROOTONE before setting in the new position. The use of this hormone insures the growth of a good root system even with material which does not transplant well or at all such as SHIRLEY POPPYS, MIGNONETTE and semitap rooted perennials. ROOTONE is recommended for use on all cuttings and slips to insure the development of a good root system.

If a few choice petunias can be carried over the winter in a window, many plants may be developed from them by cuttings taken in March and treated with ROOTONE. Other material too.

ROSEHOLME GARDENS trusts that you have found this little catalogue of interest. Future editions will contain not only new varieties of garden material but hints on growing and also on the use of material in the home and in the show room. A small order is as appreciated as a large one. An order from you will insure that you will receive a copy of the next edition when issued. Editions of this list are limited and are sent to old customers as soon as issued.

We specialize in seeds of rare & unusual annuals and perennials. We also are interested in summer flowering bulbs & tubers and have many varieties under trial which will be introduced as soon as they produce strains which meet our exacting standards.
